Huddle

BETA GUIDE · VERSION 0.2.0

Thanks for testing Huddle

Huddle is one shared money picture for your household. You and the person you share money with each add income and spending on your own iPhone, and you both see the same feed and the same totals within seconds.

iPhone with iOS 17 or later Your own Apple Account, signed in to iCloud Best tested in pairs

In this guide

1. Install the beta
2. Set up your household
3. Add entries
4. Read the feed and totals
5. Fix mistakes
6. Repeating entries
7. Categories
8. The Household tab
9. What to test
10. Send feedback

START HERE

Install the beta

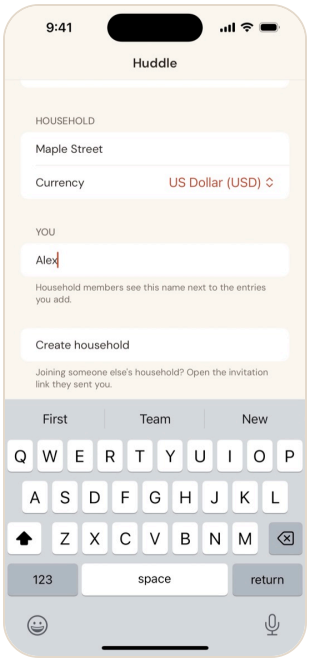

1. Open the TestFlight invitation email or link on your iPhone.
2. If you don't have TestFlight yet, install it from the App Store, then go back to the invitation.
3. Tap Accept, then Install. Huddle appears on your home screen with an orange icon.

Before you open Huddle, make sure you're signed in to iCloud (Settings, then your name at the top). Huddle keeps your household in iCloud. It has no account or password of its own.

ONE OF YOU, THEN THE OTHER

Set up your household

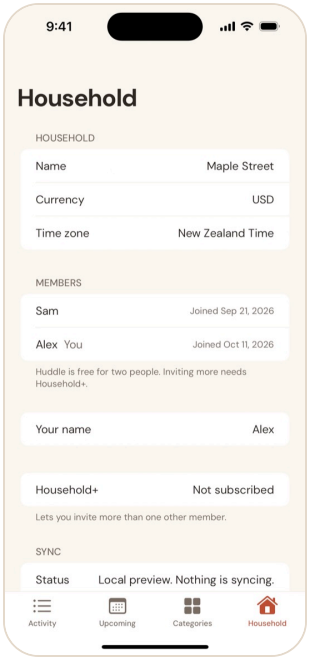

1. One person creates the household

Give the household a name, choose its currency, and enter your own name. Your partner sees that name next to the entries you add.

The household belongs to the person who creates it, and its data counts against their iCloud storage. Everyone in it has the same access day to day.

2. Invite your partner

Go to the Household tab and tap Invite a member. Send the link with Messages, Mail, or any app on the share sheet.

3. Your partner joins

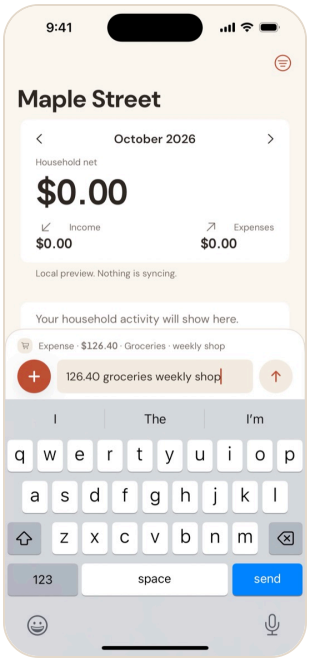

On their iPhone, with Huddle installed, they open the link. Huddle shows Joining the household…, then asks for their name. That's it: you're both in.

Huddle is free for two people. Inviting a third person needs Household+ (see The Household tab).

THE EVERYDAY PART

Add entries

Type into the bar at the bottom of the Activity tab the way you'd text it: an amount and a category, in any order. A line above the bar shows how Huddle reads it before you add it. Tap the arrow, or send on the keyboard, to add it.

Type	Huddle adds
126.40 groceries weekly shop	Expense of $126.40 in Groceries, with the note "weekly shop"
+3000 salary	Income of $3,000.00 in Salary. Start with + for income.
groc 54.20	Expense in Groceries. The first three letters of a category are enough.
45 dining @sam	Expense in Dining, paid by Sam. Use @ and a name for who paid.

Anything Huddle doesn't recognise as the amount, category, or payer becomes the note. If it can't find a category, the entry goes under "No category"; you can tap it later to choose one.

Prefer a form? Tap the orange + next to the bar for Add expense or Add income, with the date, category, note, who paid, and "Personal expense".

WHAT YOU BOTH SEE

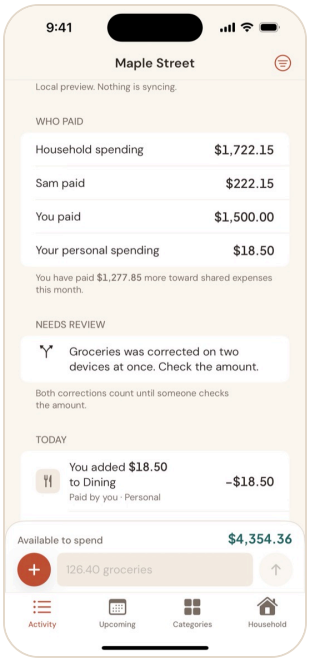

Read the feed and totals

The top of the Activity tab shows the month's household net, with income and expenses beneath it. Use the arrows to look at earlier months.

Who paid shows each person's share of the household's spending, and personal spending separately. It appears once an entry says who paid.

Below that, entries are grouped by day, and each one says who added it: Sam added $130.00 to Groceries.

Available to spend, pinned above the bar, is the month's net plus repeating income and bills still due this month.

NOTHING IS QUIETLY OVERWRITTEN

Fix mistakes

Change an amount

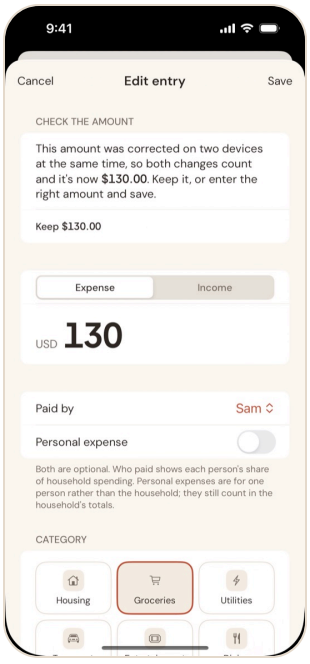

Tap the entry, change the amount, and tap Save. Huddle saves it as a correction: the feed shows *Corrected from $18.50, and the original stays in the entry's history.

Delete an entry

Tap the entry, then Delete entry. It leaves the totals, but a record stays under Filter (top right) then Show deleted entries.

Needs review

If you both change the same entry at the same moment (or one of you was offline), both changes count and the entry waits under Needs review. Either of you taps it and chooses Keep, or corrects it again.

RENT, BILLS, SALARIES

Repeating entries

Open the Upcoming tab and tap +. Enter the amount, a name such as Rent, how often it repeats, and when it starts.

Huddle adds a real entry on each date, once, even with two phones in different time zones. Upcoming lists what's due in the next 30 days. To end one, open it and tap Stop repeating; the entries it already added stay.

You can also tap Repeat when adding an entry with the full form.

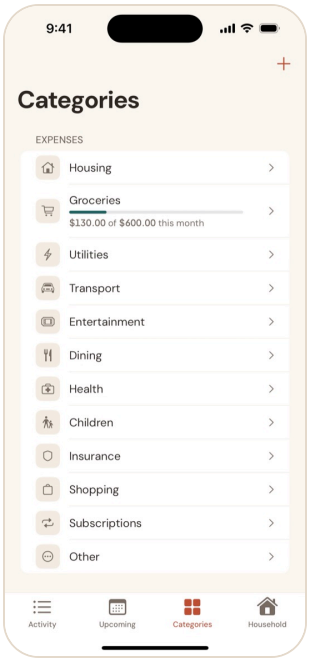

READY TO USE

Categories

Huddle starts with everyday categories such as Housing, Groceries, Utilities, and Salary. In the Categories tab you can add your own, rename one, or archive one you don't use. Past entries keep their category.

Give a category a monthly limit to see how much of it the household has used this month.

SETTINGS FOR EVERYONE

The Household tab

- Members: who's in the household and when they joined. The owner can remove someone; anyone else can Leave household. Their entries stay, marked as from a former member.
- Sync: shows whether everything has reached iCloud. Sync now checks straight away.
- App lock: require Face ID, Touch ID, or your passcode to open Huddle.
- How Huddle protects your data: what's encrypted, what isn't, and where it's stored.
- Export entries (CSV): a spreadsheet of every entry.
- Household+: lets the owner invite more than one other member. In the beta, purchases go through TestFlight and you aren't charged.

THIS ROUND

What to test

Most of these need two phones in the same household. Note anything that's slow, confusing, or wrong.

1. Create a household on one phone and join it from the other.

   Joining takes under a minute, and both phones show the same household.

2. With Huddle open on both phones, add an entry on one.

   It appears on the other within about 10 seconds.

3. Turn on Airplane Mode, add three entries, then turn it off.

   All three reach the other phone, and "Saved on this device. Waiting to sync." goes away.

4. Both of you change the same entry to different amounts, one phone in Airplane Mode, then reconnect.

   The entry shows under Needs review on both phones until one of you taps Keep.

5 Delete an entry, then look under Filter, Show deleted entries.

It's gone from the totals on both phones but listed there.

6 Add a monthly repeating entry that starts today.

It's added once, on both phones, on the same date.

7 Try quick entry with your own wording.

Tell us any line it reads wrongly, exactly as you typed it.

8 The member who joined taps Leave household. Then the owner invites them again.

No crash. The owner sees them as a former member, and they can join again.

9 Delete Huddle and install it again from TestFlight.

Your household and its entries come back.

10 Turn on App lock, and try Household+ (free in the beta).

The lock appears when you come back to Huddle; Household+ lets the owner invite a third person.

TELL US

Send feedback

- From Huddle: take a screenshot, tap the preview, then Share Beta Feedback. Add what you were doing and what you expected.
- From TestFlight: open the TestFlight app, choose Huddle, then Send Beta Feedback.
- If Huddle crashes, TestFlight asks whether to send a report. Please say yes and add a sentence about what you'd just done.

About your beta data. Your household is stored in iCloud, in the account of the person who created it. Huddle has no servers of its own, so it isn't sent anywhere else. This is a test version, so export anything you want to keep (Household, then Export entries). Beta households may not carry over to the first public version.

Huddle beta 0.2.0. The pictures in this guide come from a demo household that doesn't sync, so they say "Local preview" where your app shows its sync status.